

The chances are nine in ten that the office boy will bring a cake of Ivory Soap if sent for "a cake of good soap." But be sure of it. Each cake of Ivory Soap is stamped "Ivory."

IT FLOATS.

KNOCKED FROM A BRIDGE AND BEATEN BY FOOTPADS.

WILLIAM H. MILLER WAS DAZED WHEN FOUND.

His Groans Heard by Doctor Engelbert Voerster While Crossing River des Peres.

Living underneath a footbridge which spans River des Peres, between the Old and New Manchester roads, near the Tamm Avenue intersection, Doctor Engelbert Voerster of the City Dispensary staff—physicians last night found the body of a man in a semiconscious condition. After he had been resuscitated the man informed the physician that his name was William H. Miller, that he lived at No. 223 Famous Avenue, and that he had been held up, robbed and beaten by highwaymen who had shoved him from the bridge into the weeds below.

Explaining further, Miller told Doctor Voerster that he was employed as a clerk in the office of the Recorder of Deeds. As usual, he left the office yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, and on account of a business engagement downtown, did not return home for supper. It was nearly 8 o'clock in the evening when he boarded a St. Louis Street Company car of the Tower Grove division to go to his home on Famous Avenue. He alighted from the car at Tamm Avenue and walked north to the south landing of the River des Peres bridge, along a rough board walk, which leads over hills and through the woods to Famous Avenue from Old Manchester road. The southern boundary line of Forest Park Park runs through the woods to Famous Avenue from Old Manchester road lessens the distance considerably, and avoids the bad pavements of Knox Avenue, which is the eastern terminus of Famous Avenue.

The bridge spans the river at this point in its course, from east to west, across the banks of the river. Just after Mr. Miller had crossed the center of the bridge and was walking along the north half of it, he was assaulted. In his few words of explanation, Doctor Voerster said that the footpads knocked him from the bridge without warning and rifled his pockets while he was lying unconscious on the ground.

Doctor Voerster assumed charge at the City Dispensary at midnight. He left his office at 5:30 a.m. Clinton Avenue, about the same time that Mr. Miller started from downtown for his home. The doctor's opinion that he crossed the bridge in the middle of the night was corroborated. His attention was attracted by groans apparently emanating from underneath the bridge. He retraced his steps to the north end of the bridge and made his investigation. He found Miller in a group of underbrush in a state of coma. It was nearly 10 o'clock before the man could be revived. Assistance was summoned, and Miller was removed to his home. No report of the case was made to the police.

Doctor Voerster said that, on account of the darkness, it was impossible for him to make more than a cursory examination of Miller, inasmuch as he had the opinion that they were not serious. His hands and face were scratched by his fall into the weeds and he was bruised about the body.

SEEMED MIRACULOUS.

Remarkable Cure Said to Have Followed Conversion.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Burnt Oak, Mo., Jan. 16.—Religious circles in this section are greatly excited over what appears to be a miraculous cure effected by Evangelist Mack of Kansas City, a revival which he recently conducted at Ellsworth, Mo.

It is related that George W. Oregon, who had been sick and dumb from birth, was converted and became miraculously able to hear and utter sounds.

It is the opinion of the faithful that these healing powers lie in the Reverend Mr. Mack, who claims to be a natural born gospel exponent, and is a pastor in the Baptist Church.

In speaking of the recent cure, Dr. Edward L. Smith, of the local hospital, said that it was given to him by God, as it was bestowed upon the disciples of old. He also stated that he had prayed for a number of sick people whose doctors had given up, and that they had recovered, apparently through the influence of grace.

The Reverend Mr. Mack is now conducting a religious revival at the Mount Zion Baptist Church.
